

Good morning,

Europe and the world are in emergency.

Within this framework it is bewildering to see egoism prevail over solidarity.

On the contrary, what is essential is to cooperate and follow the rules given by the national authorities, all together, to win this battle.

Together, operating in a responsible way, we can win and prevent the virus from making our socio-economic system collapse.

In our country ITALY we have been the first to confront with the problem and we have seen:

- people who stocked up food without thinking about other people,
- people who tried to escape from infected cities by any means,
- people who didn't care to respect the rules,

all of us in Midac have chosen to be fair, supportive, responsible and rational.

At Midac we have chosen to continue working, in compliance with the safety distances and using of all the protective devices required by the new laws.

We chose to work because our batteries are used by:

- trains, buses, planes and cars that allow us mobility,
- ambulances, firefighters, police that guarantee us health, safety and public order,
- forklift trucks that load primary commodities onto trucks,
- uninterruptible power banks that supply operating rooms when electricity is missing, we have chosen to be on the side of doctors and nurses who are at the forefront of this battle, we have chosen to continue to operate in a responsible way because we believe in the future and we understand that our products are of public utility, a first need.

We need healthy people who work in healthy companies, we need to have healthy companies to work in to guarantee a respectable future.

We will always be supportive of the ones who help us believe in the future.
